

Society

With the President and Mrs. Roosevelt absent for another week, the White House will continue to be deserted at mid-summer. Little, if any social incidents will be found in the official circles notwithstanding the fact that the past week has seen the reopening of the majority of official homes.

The Vice President returned to his home on Farragut Square Friday evening for a short stay en route from Indianapolis to Florida, where he is to make a speech next week. He was not accompanied by Mrs. Fairbanks, who is still at her Indianapolis home, but may join him here in time to take the proposed Southern trip.

In any event, she will be in Washington for Thanksgiving Day, when they expect to be established here for the season. Lieut. and Mrs. Timmons, who returned to town a short time ago, have given up their former home, on Le Roy place, and will pass the season with the Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Fairbanks, whose romantic marriage of a month or more ago, is still a matter of interest, will probably make their home in Springfield, Ohio, where the former recently established himself in business.

Mrs. Root will leave to-morrow for a short visit to New York, but is now established for the season at her new residence, 150 Rhode Island avenue, her handsome home, for the first time.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Taft are entertaining for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Taft have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. de Bonard, of Cincinnati, whose recent marriage in Cincinnati, was one of that city's most important autumn weddings.

In addition to the schedule of White House dinners and receptions announced some time ago, most of the Cabinet hostesses have already arranged their dates for their formal dinner parties, the most important of course, being that in honor of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Root will open their series with a distinguished company on Thursday, December 20, to be followed by the other members of the Cabinet. As these official hosts number nine, and there are only seven Thursdays between December 20 and the close of the social season on February 13, several of the Presidential dinners will go over to the spring season, which each year becomes more important and interesting.

While all hostesses agree that a Presidential dinner party is an official function and should be properly reported as such, there is a great change in the attitude on the subject of general entertaining. In consequence, comparatively few dinner companies will find their way into print in the coming winter.

A change which, however disappointing to the reading public, has the sanction and approbation of the leading host and hostess of the official and resident world.

Many wise hostesses besides Mrs. Root will begin their entertaining in December, when an unusual number of dinner parties which are already being planned to speed the going and welcome the coming officials with a genuine regret or extreme cordiality as the occasion demands.

Sir Mortimer and Lady Durand, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Shaw, the Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Hitchcock, are all receiving most gratifying attentions from their friends, while among the arrivals the Japanese Ambassador and Viscount Aoki bid fair to rival the most popular buds and brides of the season, who thus far have occupied polite attention of the early season.

The return to town of Senator and Mrs. Murray Crane, and Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, will be the signal for a number of smart dinner parties among the particular friends of these two young matrons.

Numerous companies, intended for Mr. and Mrs. Longworth last spring, have been crowded off the cards; while Senator and Mrs. Crane, who were married in Italy, have had absolutely no time to receive the acknowledgment of the good-will of their Washington friends.

The return of the ambassadors from Italy and Brazil, with the arrival of the Russian Minister to Mexico and Mme. de Wollant, and Lady Johnstone, wife of the British Minister to Denmark, among the week's most distinguished visitors, in addition to the interesting wedding at the Belgian Legation on Monday afternoon, and the first dinner party of the season at the German Embassy last evening, have afforded the chief social incidents in diplomatic circles.

There is also the continued interest in the successor of Sir Mortimer Durand, which will change the entire personnel of the British Embassy.

As regards the latter subject, the dispatches from London repeat their message of a week ago, that no successor has been selected. This leaves still further time for the interesting discussion of the chances of Hon. Gerard Lowther, the recently knighted Sir Sprig-Rice, or Sir Alan Johnston, all of whom are possible ambassadors and all former secretaries of legation or embassy in Washington.

Mr. Lowther is the more recent member of the American staff. Sir Sprig-Rice, who was first secretary of legation under Lord Pauncefote when President Roosevelt was Civil Service Commissioner, would, it is believed, be a particularly gratifying selection to the President, who has never allowed the friendship of their earlier years to lapse. The British diplomat is now British Minister at Theban. He enjoyed much the same relation to the President as did Baron Speck von Sternberg when he was promoted from the post of consul general at Calcutta to Ambassador at Washington.

The last visit of Sir Cecil Sprig-Rice to the United States was in February, 1905, when he came from London to spend twenty-four hours in Washington, with the time about equally divided between the British Embassy and the White House. He was supposed to be the representative of King Edward, on one of the most important diplomatic missions of this generation. He was then secretary of the German Embassy in Berlin, from which he was soon after promoted to his present post and rank. Lady Sprig-Rice was Miss Lascelles, daughter of Sir Lascelles, the British Ambassador to Germany.

Mrs. Gerard Lowther, as stated earlier in the week, was Miss Alice Blith, daughter of Atherton Blith, of New York and Newport, but formerly of Philadelphia.

Lady Johnstone, wife of Sir Alan

Johnstone, the Minister to Denmark, was Miss Pinchot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Pinchot, of this city, where Lady Johnstone is now visiting. Her husband, before his present mission, was secretary of embassy at several European posts and in Washington.

The mention of Lord Curzon, of Kedleston, late viceroy of India, and son-in-law of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, of this city, who is visiting America for the first time since his marriage eleven years ago, in connection with the Ambassadorship to the United States, is unauthorized by Lord Curzon, or the foreign office in London. The presence in America at this time of the former viceroy is at the request of Mrs. Leiter, and regards the placing of securities, which she wishes to leave to her grandchildren, the three small daughters of the late Lady Curzon, whose death occurred last summer.

The German Ambassador and Baroness von Sternburg opened the hospitalities of their embassy for the present season last evening by a delightful dinner party, which included the Baroness Hengelmann, wife of the Ambassador from Austria-Hungary, the Minister from Denmark, Lady Johnstone, wife of the British Minister to Denmark; Madame von Swinderen, wife of the Minister from the Netherlands; Mr. and Mrs. James Pinchot, Mrs. Hobson, Miss Williams, Rear Admiral Cowles, Hon. Roland Lindsay, of the British Embassy; the Viscount Charles de Chambrun, of the French Embassy; Prince von Lynar and Count von Hetzfeld, of the host's official family.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Grant-Duff, whose marriage took place at the Belgian Legation on Monday, returned from a short honeymoon trip to Richmond, to the guests of the Belgian Minister and Baroness Moncheur until their departure for England next week.

The announcement of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Slater, that their daughter's debut will take the form of a ball, rather than the less ceremonious tea so generally in vogue, is of special interest not only to the contemporaries of Miss Slater, but to society in general. It will be the first large entertainment of many years in the once famous residence, 1781 I street, which they purchased from Mr. S. S. Howland several years ago, after the death of Mrs. Howland, who, during her lifetime, was one of the most prominent hostesses of resident circles.

Previous to the Howlands occupancy, this house was in turn the home of three Cabinet officers when Cabinet entertaining was at its best. Postmaster General Wamamker, Secretary of the Navy Whitney, and Secretary of State Frelinghuysen all having owned or leased it in the three different administrations represented.

It was during the first Cleveland administration that it reached its greatest fame, the first wife of Secretary Whitney being one of the great hostesses of that generation, and lavish in her entertaining. The ballroom in which Miss Eleanor Slater will make her bow, under the Wamamker was one of the finest private picture galleries in Washington. It was in this same room, but under the Whitney occupancy, that Mrs. James Brown Potter first won an unenviable distinction by her recitation of "Oster Joe" long before her appearance on the professional stage.

Miss Mary Southerland, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. W. W. H. Southerland, entertained a luncheon company of this year's buds to-day when her guests included Miss Isabel Magruder, Miss Leutz, Miss Olga Converse, Miss Chew, Miss Jennings, Miss Frances Goldsborough, Miss Denny, Miss Morgan, Miss Crawford, Miss Joanna Schneider, Miss Slater, Miss Molly Dodge, Miss Tanner, and Miss Stephanie Trescott.

This evening Capt. and Mrs. Southerland were hosts at a large dinner at the Chevy Chase Club in the interest of their daughters. The company of young people was chaperoned by Lieut. and Mrs. R. C. Euliner.

The marriage of Miss Maria Christine Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christian S. Pearce, of this city, to Mr. Harold Burton Whitmore, of Hartford, Conn., took place yesterday afternoon at the family residence on Nineteenth street, amid floral surroundings and in the presence of a distinguished company, which made it one of the particularly attractive home weddings of the autumn. Rev. Herbert Scott Smith, rector of St. Margaret's Episcopal Church, officiated.

Miss Pearce wore an exquisite bridal gown of white broad satin and chiffon cloth elaborately trimmed with old family lace, worn by her mother at her wedding. Her veil was also of real lace, and was worn by her grandmother and her mother on similar occasions. The bridal bouquet was a shower of Bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Ten Eyck Brown, the bride's sister, was the matron of honor. Her gown was of white chiffon cloth and real lace and she carried white chrysanthemums. The maid of honor was Miss Helen Foulke, who wore a dainty gown of white Paris embroidered muslin and carried white chrysanthemums.

William Whitmore, of Hartford, Conn., acted as best man for his brother. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. After an informal reception Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore left Washington for a wedding trip to Bermuda. They will reside in Hartford, Conn., after the first week in December.

Mrs. Whitmore's traveling gown was a handsome black tailor-made costume, and she wore a large black hat and silver fox fur.

Mrs. Pearce, the mother of the bride, who wore a modish gown of lavender India crepe trimmed with black thread lace, was assisted in receiving the guests by Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Whitmore, of Hartford, the bridegroom's parents. Other out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ender, of Hartford; his sister, Mrs. Robert Parker, of Pittsfield, Mass., and his brother and sister-in-law, William Whitmore, who acted as best man, and Mrs. Whitmore, of Hartford.

Among the latest arrivals registered in Paris are the following Washingtonians: Mrs. J. W. Emery, the Misses Helen and Geraldine Emery, Mr. John F. Pearson, and Mr. David Talty.

Miss Lydia Loring, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Loring, left yesterday for a round of visits in and near New York.

Mrs. John Leggett Pultz, who has been making a week's visit to her parents, Mr. Justice and Mrs. McKenna, at the Connecticut, returned to her home in New York yesterday. Mrs. Pultz, who, as Miss Hildegarde McKenna, was one of the great belles of Capital society, and a bride of last year, has entirely recovered from her recent very serious illness.

Miss Catharine Ridgely will have as her guest at the Portland this week Miss Orndorff, of Springfield, Ill., in whose honor she will entertain at theater party on Tuesday evening.

Col. and Mrs. Steven T. Norvell have arrived at Fort Bliss, Tex., where they will pass the winter with their son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. John Elliott Hunt.

Miss Maude Buckingham Hoyt has returned to town and her apartment at the Marlborough, after five months' absence in the North.

Senator and Mrs. Burrows will have with them for Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. George McNair, of New York, and Mrs. Peck, of Kalamazoo, Mich., the latter the sister of Mrs. Burrows.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Brooks, the latter formerly Miss Langhorne, of Virginia, sailed yesterday for England, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf Astor, at Cliveden, until after Christmas. They will then join Mr. and Mrs. Dana Gibson at the Cornhill, where Mrs. Astor, the latter formerly Miss Nancy Langhorne, have recently been entertaining the Duke and Duchess of Connaught at Cliveden.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Bradley, whose marriage took place November 1, returned from their honeymoon travels yesterday, and have joined Mrs. Bradley, sr., at the family residence on Q street.

Miss Sarah Carr Upton has returned to town and joined Miss Olive Rieley Seward at their home on Nineteenth street for the winter.

Sir William and Lady Perkins, who spent several weeks in Washington early in the autumn, sailed for home yesterday on the Carmania from New York.

Mrs. S. F. Emmons has returned from Europe, where she had been detained on account of illness. She will not entertain this winter, being in mourning.

Mr. Livingston I. Young, owing to the death of Mr. Bowling's mother, recalls the invitations to the marriage of his daughter, Ellen-Lee, to H. W. Bowling, for Wednesday, November 21, 1906. The wedding will take place on the same date, and will be witnessed only by the immediate families.

Mrs. Cameron McR. Winslow, accompanied by her children, left Newport, R. I., November 17, for San Francisco to meet her husband, Commander Winslow, who will arrive there in the cruiser, Charleston, of which he is in command.

Father Gomez Himalaya, the Portuguese priest and scientist, who exhibited an astronomical instrument which gained for him first prize in science, gold and silver medals and honorable mention at the St. Louis Exposition, has returned to Portugal, where he is receiving much attention and gaining increased honors from his government and scientists there.

In the course of some experiments in chemistry, made in Washington last winter, Father Himalaya discovered an explosive which seems likely to supersede dynamite in mining and blasting, as it is more powerful and yet is without the dangerous qualities that make the use of dynamite so disastrous to life and property. He has recently made brilliant test experiments at Lisbon in presence of the King of Portugal and distinguished experts in the technique of explosives, the King meanwhile taking photographs of the results.

The annual meeting of the First Needlework Guild of Washington City was held in St. John's Church parish hall Friday morning and largely attended. Mrs. Radcliffe, chaplain of the guild, conducted the opening exercises, which were followed by the reports of the secretary (Mrs. George Byrd Harrison) and treasurer (Miss Fanny G. Childs). Most interesting accounts as to the distribution of clothing were given by Mrs. Howells, of the Associated Charities, and Mrs. Safford, from the canal mission, and from the visiting nurses of the city.

This is the only organization of its kind that continues the distribution of clothing throughout the winter months. The work begins in November and closes May 1. It is nonsectarian, and those who are interested in helping the poor and needy are asked to become members.

One of the late events connected with the Winodaghts work is the establishment of the Young Ladies' club, composed of a number of young ladies who are interested in club work. On Wednesday, November 14, the club was organized at the rooms of Winodaghts, 1219 New York avenue, and the following officers were elected:

President, Miss Edith Scott Campbell; vice president, Miss Charlotte Warren; secretary, Miss Helen McCambridge; treasurer, Miss Virginia Gardner. Miss Cherille Parsons, head of the department of dramatic art at the University of Music, was elected chairman of the committee to draft the constitution, assisted by Misses Gardner and Mitchell. Several other committees were formed for developing different departments of the work. The objects and aims of the club are work, education, and social pleasure, and in co-operating with the mother club, Winodaghts.

Thorough interest and enthusiasm is awakened by preparations, which are now under way, for a bazaar to be given, December 12, in the club rooms. A collection of useful and ornamental articles, suitable for Christmas gifts, will be on sale, and a little programme arranged for.

Several social events are being planned for January, and it is surely predestined that the Dausis Club will draw considerable attention for the remainder of the winter.

Winodaghts is progressing in all its lines. At a dinner, lately given by Mrs. Colford and Mrs. Farrar, a jolly time was enjoyed by all present, the prizes awarded, being particularly appreciated by the lucky winners.

A Salmagundi party was given by the older members of the club, the entertainment being a state secret to all invited guests.

The aid of several prominent women has been pledged to the cause, and the entire spirit of the club at the present time is one of interest and enthusiasm, mingled with aims and hopes toward the enlargement and betterment of the club.

Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, at the Mount Tabor M. P. Church, Thirty-fifth street and Wisconsin avenue, Miss Ellen Bernice Halley, niece of Mr. and Mrs. James Halley, was married to Mr. Richard Bland Phelps, of London.

The church was tastefully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. Litsinger, and the wedding march from "Lohengrin," was played by Mr. Walter Gilliam. The bride wore a tailor-made travelling suit of garnet broadcloth with a velvet hat to match, trimmed in American Beaver and ostrich feathers. Her waist was a blouse of Oriental applique cream lace over silk.

The bride carried a bouquet of Bride roses. The ushers were Mr. Charles S. Mason, William B. Page, G. Neal Ball, Joseph W. McKelcher, John Cheney, and Charles S. Cheney, the latter two of Baltimore. Those present from out of the city included Mrs. Phelps, mother of the groom, D. L. Leason, Mrs. E. E. Eblein, of Baltimore, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shockey, the latter a sister of the bride, Winchester, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Phelps left immediately after the ceremony to spend their honeymoon in the South. Upon their return they will reside at Langdon, D. C.

The board of lady visitors of the Foundling Hospital will hold their annual donation tea at the Hospital, 1715 Fifteenth street northwest, on Thursday, November 22, from 3 until 7 o'clock, at which the sale of dolls, flowers, and home-made cakes and candies will be the specialty. The ladies in charge are Mrs. A. Lisner, Mrs. A. T. Britton, Mrs. Simon Wolf, Mrs. Richard Sylvester, Mrs. Lester Platt, Mrs. Carl Casey, Mrs. W. S. Knox, Mrs. Joseph Auerbach, Mrs. George Johnson, Mrs. A. B. Browne, Mrs. W. H. Bayly, Mrs. Hoke, Mrs. Shirley Bowles, Mrs. W. E. Boughton, Mrs. J. C. Smith, Mrs. H. L. West, Mrs. H. M. Kutchin, and Mrs. Joseph N. Whitney.

A jolly surprise party was given to Mr. John O'Connell, of South Brookland, on Tuesday evening, by his associates in Division B, of the Land Office, where he has been a clerk for more than fifteen years. It was the occasion of his birthday, but his crystal wedding had recently occurred, and his guests informed him that they were there for a dual celebration. Mr. De Saules read "The Crystal Wedding," and Mrs. Starkey, on behalf of the others, then presented a handsome cut glass bowl. The evening sped with song and laughter, and all took their departure with many expressions of cordial good-will for their popular associate. Regrets were sent by those unable to attend. Those present were Mesdames Cramer, De Saules, Brier, Greenland, Hicks, Rice, Starker, Townsend, Walsh, Webster, Zimmerman, and Misses Chapin, Gilbert, Harvey, La Porte, Norris, and Patterson.

The ladies of the Rector's Aid Society, of St. Margaret's Church, will give a luncheon and bazaar at Massanutten Hall, on December 3 and 4, from 12 to 10 p. m., luncheon being served from 12 until 2 o'clock.

The work is under the direction of Mrs. R. B. Bradford, chairman of the executive committee, consisting of the chairman of the ten circles, which form the society, Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Blake, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Cortelyou, Mrs. Edson, Mrs. Fenton, Mrs. Goode, Mrs. Jewell, Mrs. Kenyon, Mrs. L. Vandergrift. The arrangement for luncheon will be under the special care of Mrs. Jewell, Mrs. Kenyon, Mrs. Vandergrift, and Mrs. Goode, with their respective circles.

The bazaar will be under the direction of Mrs. Cortelyou, Mrs. Abbott, and Mrs. Fenton, and their circles. A pretty feature will be the Japanese booth, under the care of Mrs. Waite, and Mrs. Williams, assisted by six young ladies in costume, by its neighbor the Dutch booth, presided over by Mrs. Utheroth, Mrs. Fields, and Miss Chapman. Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Crump, and Mrs. Webb will have charge of the housekeepers' booth, which will offer everything dainty and useful for the household. There will be special amusements for the children, including a grab bag, under the care of Mrs. Goode.

The bazaar in aid of the new school-house for Holy Trinity Church will open to-morrow night and will continue during the entire week. The parish hall has been transformed into a veritable bower of beauty, bunting, flags, and electricity playing a most important part in the decorations. The committees in charge are as follows:
